

Welcome to the Centergy Region of Wisconsin

A beautiful, vibrant place to call home

Abundant recreation, great living, and warm, friendly people

The Centergy Region offers an extraordinary lifestyle that has made our area a popular destination for outdoor recreation and vacations.

It is dotted with beautiful lakes, rivers that teem with fish, lush forests, rolling farm fields, and picturesque bluffs. People come here to enjoy our natural beauty, whether it's to hike, bike, camp, fish, cycle, hunt, kayak, canoe, or water-ski. If you enjoy what nature has to offer, living and working here will allow you to spend more time relaxing and less time traveling.

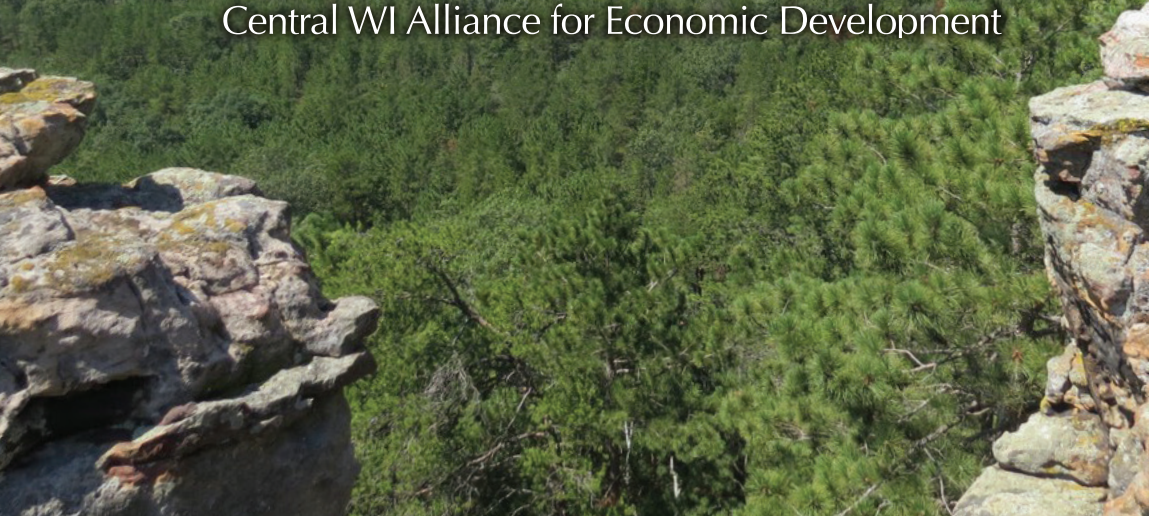

Our warm, friendly people know that here they can pursue dreams and raise a family in a supportive environment. Sure, we're future-focused, but more important, we're down-to-earth and friendly.

A remarkably diverse business environment with deep resources

The Centergy Region offers a broad array of business resources. Whether you are looking for an Entrepreneurial Training Program, a list of available sites and buildings, or a robust workforce, the Centergy Region should be the first place you look. Combined with thoughtful planning and business support, that has allowed our region to achieve a remarkable degree of diversity in the industries that populate our business community. Not only has that diversity produced an unusually healthy economy -- it has created built-in resilience that has helped us weather tough economic times and prosper when the state and nation's economy is doing well.

Big business, small business, and entrepreneurs thrive in the Centergy Region.

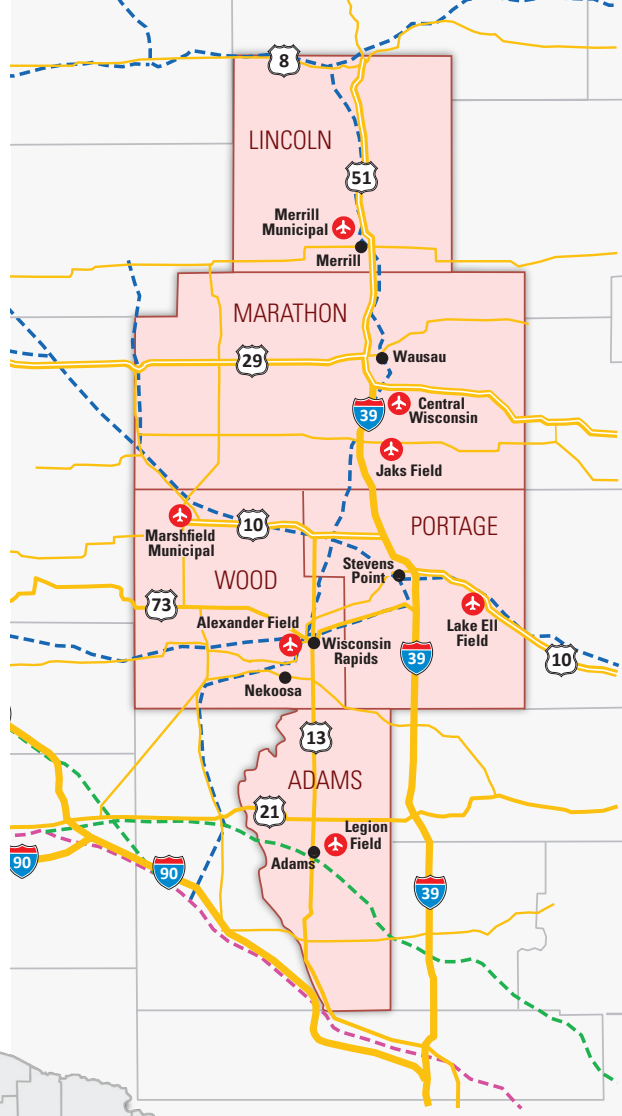

Central Wisconsin puts you in the center of North America

The Centergy Region of Wisconsin is in the very heart of the state, which also puts our area right in the middle of the state's transportation network.

Highway access to our region is extraordinary. In addition to Interstate 39, a route that connects Wisconsin to the world, people rely upon divided U.S. 51 and Wisconsin 29 to connect to the nation.

Central Wisconsin Airport has scheduled airline flights daily to Chicago, Detroit, and Minneapolis/St. Paul. In addition, each of our counties has one or more general aviation airports.

You, too, can Support the Centergy Region

Centergy, Inc. is a 501(c)4 nonprofit regional marketing and economic development organization. Our purpose is to foster collaboration among private and public-sector leaders throughout the five counties of central Wisconsin that make up the Centergy Region: Adams, Lincoln, Marathon, Portage, and Wood counties.

Centergy is proud of the region's business resources and plays an important role in strengthening and growing the region's economy, to ensure an even better quality of life for residents of the counties and communities we serve.

If you are interested in joining those who support our work, please contact Centergy.
